the idea of a west african philosophy of rights is prescriptive in that it advocates a worldview for west africans that identifies the essential qualities needed for the development of the entire person the west african philosophy of rights can be defined as having three important components 1 the equal rights to life liberty and property 2 a horizontal covenant authority among ethnic groups and 3 communal accountability these three components for west african nations are the key elements that will bring about a successful transition into modernization and a sustainable way of life

originally published in 1980 and here re issued with an updated preface this book deals with the role of the horse in the societies of west africa during the pre colonial period it traces the history of its introduction and its diffusion within west africa and examines the problems of maintaining horses in such a harsh environment the use of horses in warfare is analysed but the non military aspects of the west african horse culture are also discussed principally the use of horses as tokens of status and wealth the book includes a review of the decline of the west african horse culture in the 20th century reflecting the passing of a political system based on warfare and slavery west african worlds provides a critical assessment of social economic and political change in africa s most populous and arguably most externally focused region with an emphasis on globalisation and modernisation case studies and commentary are integrated throughout to highlight the concerns and issues of the region enriched by an impressive mix of west african voices this text combines theory and application with policy and practice to address socio economic change the pursuit of livelihoods and development within west africa this book aims to enhance and challenge our understanding of language and literacy as social practice against the background of heightened globalisation juffermans presents an ethnographic study of the linguistic landscape of the gambia arguing that language should be conceptualised as a verb languaging rather than a countable noun a language languages he goes on to argue that sociolinguistics should not be defined as the study of who speaks what language to whom and when and to what end as fishman defined it but as the study of who uses which linguistic features under particular circumstances in a particular place and time the book is therefore in part an exercise to unpluralise language which juffermans argues is necessary for a more realistic understanding of what language is what it does and what people do with it the book will be of interest to sociolinguistics researchers especially those focusing on africa and the global south
