first published in 1994 this book is concerned with certain kinds of wh clauses whose interpretations are easily and the author argues plausibly rendered by a logicosemantic analysis on which wh phrases translate as open sentences that is as expressions of the semantically interpreted representation which contain free variables after a review of influential contemporary analyses of the semantics of questions concentrating on issues related to the truthconditional interpretation of these constructions the author goes on to analyse logicosemantic similarities between wh phrases and indefinite nps this analysis is extended in chapter v to account for asymmetries between wh phrases and indefinites but is preceded by the engagement and refutation of some of the challenges to it the appendices discuss some peripheral points relating to the central points made by the author which are in need of further study toward assessing business ethics education edited by diane l swanson and dann g fisher of kansas state university is a sequel to their book advancing business ethics education in the ethics in practice iap book series the focus on assessment in this second book is a timely response to the urgent search among business schools for ways to teach and assess ethics at a time when the public s faith in corporations and business schools has been undermined greatly by the failure of both to respond to widespread corruption and scandals in the business sector although no one expects business education alone to resolve these problems the distinguished scholars represented in this book advocate that business schools should at least do their part by exposing their students to decision models that incorporate ethical dimensions on behalf of corporate stakeholders and society at large as the book's title conveys it is then important to assess key learning objectives to insure that business students graduate knowing ethics fundamentals and armed with the ability to recognize ethical dilemmas and possible solutions during the course of their careers this book will speak to all who are interested in accountability for business ethics education especially business school deans university administrators faculty members students and prospective employers this audience will find that the enterprise of assessing business ethics education is advanced in three ways first the book functions as a venue for distinguished scholars to share the innovative ways that they are assessing ethics coverage in courses and degree programs second these authors identify what needs to be assessed and the means for doing so third the book serves not only as a guide to assessment but also as a platform for expanding and improving ethics coverage in business schools moreover an important take away for readers is the provision of a simple formula first advocated by Diane I Swanson and William C Frederick University of Pittsburgh in 2005 for delivering ethics education that minimizes assessment errors by following this formula business schools can provide assurances that ethics will not be assessed as being sufficient when it is woefully inadequate or even missing in the curriculum and that it cannot be distorted diluted or trivialized by uninformed coverage and still pass inspection avoiding these assessment errors is critical in an educational environment in which weak accrediting standards for ethics go hand in hand with spotty uniformed coverage that would not be tolerated for other business disciplines interrogative phrases and the syntax semantics interface starts by analyzing the interpretation of interrogative phrases in single and multiple constituent questions including their interpretation under adverbs of quantification the results are then put to work in a novel approach to some of the constraints on dependencies between fronted interrogative phrases and the associated gaps superiority weak crossover as well as the so called weak islands the wh island the negative island and the factive island it is argued that the possibility of fronting an interrogative phrase out of these configurations is determined by a semantic pragmatic condition on questions which requires them to be answerable the analysis is worked out principally on romanian a language which allows multiple wh fronting the results are then extended to english audience researchers and students in syntax semantics and their interface as well as linguists studying the relation between the acceptability of sentences and the larger discourse context
